ANTI-AGEING GOES GREEN

In a bold move towards sustainable beauty, Mathilde Thomas, the visionary behind Caudalie, has chosen to incorporate plant-based collagen into the exclusive Caudalie x Harvard patent: Vegan Collagen 1. This groundbreaking green technology is not just effective and vegan; it also represents a new frontier in sustainable anti-ageing solutions. In contrast to traditional animal-derived collagens, Vegan Collagen 1 is sourced from a herbaceous plant, cultivated through vertical farming. This innovative approach allows for the extraction of a fragment of vegan collagen with a structure identical to our cells, ensuring optimal absorption by the dermis.

Blending seamlessly with Caudalie's exclusive Resveratrol, hyaluronic acid, and vegan collagen booster patent, this plant-based Collagen 1 guarantees effectiveness while honouring the skin and the environment. The new recycled packaging is recyclable and refillable, offering an eco-capsule system that reduces packaging by 85 percent when purchasing a refill.
